

JUNK BASKET SERVICES

War Horse Fishing and Rental Tools offers a complete line of junk baskets for retrieving debris from the wellbore.

Boot baskets or junk subs are usually run just above the drill bit and have a cup for catching objects too heavy to be completely circulated out of the hole. This functionality is particularly useful in junk milling operations. An additional use for boot baskets is running one or two baskets above a scraper results in a quicker, cleaner scraping job.

War Horse core-type junk baskets are used to retrieve small, oddly shaped debris from the wellbore. Core-type junk baskets cut a core from the formation resulting in the debris being recovered along with the core. These junk baskets are best used in softer formations and can be dressed with a variety of shoes, depending on formation properties and the debris being fished.

War Horse reverse circulation junk baskets producing a circulating force with jet nozzles capable of retrieving debris such as bit cones, slips, tail chains, and shot remnants. Open jets enable the drill string to be pulled dry. Reverse circulating junk baskets equipped with extended junk sleeves are also available for retrieving longer items.
